The War of the Oligarchs.

gro servitude. One man in South Carolina is said to hold four thousand slaves in his own right. The baronial privileges of these knights of the South are far greater than those of any Russian prince, or nobleman, for they hold the bodies and lives of these negro serfs under their absolute control. These mighty barons have governed the republic and have given laws to the nation for seventy years. They have educated their sons at public expense; they have filled most of the offices of profit; they have controlled the main average to honor in the mation, and the North has meekly bowed its head to this domination. No people of the earth have enjoyed the same exclusive, exalted and nonopolizing privilege that our Southern oare. Office in the Court House with Cook, Price & brothern have for two generations.
